Watermark Planning is a leading development consultancy which has been in operation for nearly 20 years. Sarah McNeilly, the company director, has over 25 years experience as a town planner, with extensive experience in statutory planning and assessment, and project management. Our consultants have worked in State government, local government and private consultancy throughout Sydney and much of NSW. We have vast experience with residential projects throughout Sydney and specialize in works on the northern beaches and north shore.

We can help you determine what is permissible on your site, work with your architect or designer to ensure your plans address all of the issues required in a Council assessment. Watermark Planning will write the Statement of Environmental Effects, which is the planning report to be lodged with your application. In this we provide an assessment of your development proposal and provide justification for any variations to the Council controls. We will let you know before you lodge your application if there are issues, so that these can be resolved before submission and that the assessment process is stress free!
